What clients report about their experience with JST
"Personally, I like the fact that JST supplies a total construct – not just tables, computers or control engineering. It's a total work of art where everything fits together. It's coherent, it builds on each other – that was decisive at the end."

Project Manager // Process Control Engineer (both SachsenEnergie)

axians

"The great thing about working with the Axians team was that our conversation partners were really open to the options we could demonstrate to them in the control room simulator. This attitude brought us to a joint concept that ultimately precisely met the requirements on site."
